“Wilson Fisk ruled this city by fear... but it wasn’t his only weapon. He had his fat fingers into everything, and when fear wasn’t enough, there were whispers of invisible women that made sure the men and institutions bent to his will. And it worked. He’s the most powerful man in the most important city in the world. ”

The past.

Enter,
Wesley.

"...deals with men
I no longer have any need of.

"Send Elektra."

Kelvin,
is that you?

Shush. You're about to hear my voice in your head, and then you're going to give the Kingpin what he wants and this will all be over...but before I go, I want to assure you how lucky you are. You see, I'm the good witch...

"Pray you never see the bad witch..."

"...because that means you're dead."

SECRET OF THE PAST

SECRETS OF THE PAST

No outlaw has evaded more justice than Wilson Fisk, former kingpin of a vast criminal empire and now the duly elected mayor of New York. Fisk has failed to wash his hands of his old life and has set his ire upon the city and every costume vigilante in it -- including the newly elected X-Men, who have just publically lost their leader, Cyclops, while responding to a rampage in Manhattan. Needing to protect the truth about mutant resurrection, Cyclops has taken on the persona of Captain Krakoa and returned to the public eye to lead the X-Men, currently operating out of a Krakoa-grown base known as the Treehouse.

Seneca Park,
a gift from mutantdom
to the city
of New York.

Now.

"My fellow Knickerbockers..."

"...our heroic
security forces
are now fanning
out throughout the city..."

...to protect us
from the walking weapons that we have lived in fear of
for far too long.

This is Rogue to all points. Ah figure we got a flaming bag
of crap at our front door.

To that way of life
I say: no more.

Across town at the United Nations.

Mister
Leland, are you aware of what's transpiring at the Treehouse?

I am, but I'm afraid the matter has been debated and settled: The United Nations will not interfere, even when a city criminalizes
our people.

Ordinarily, I would tell Cyclops
to move across the river to New Jersey, but I have no love for the current Mayor of New York City,
and if I can embarrass him,
it would bring me great pleasure. Plus, I paid a fortune for the real estate.

Here
is what I propose.

Ah. Ha. Yes,
I would think that would do
the trick.

I've been patient enough-- and the cameras are on.

I'm taking the door!

I hate these freaks.

That's United States government property...

There's no need for any fight.

Well, there's no need to fight, but we could if y'all wanna.

But we're not going to fight...in front of the cameras.

Can we start over, John Walker?

Where's the shield?

I threw it back to you, but I think I overshot Manhattan.

UGHN!

Polaris. You don't know who you're messing with--

--We're THE THUNDERBOLTS!

What're you doing, Rhino?

You look ridiculous over there. Remy's gonna be very disappointed.

Ain't nothin' personal, sugar.

Just business.

Electro-- you think I'm afraid of going into the hole?!

I DON'T KNOW WHAT THAT MEANS!

Lorna--
wait.
We'd
only be helping them.

I've fought
the original Wolverine...

...but not this pretender.

Oh, dude.
I'm so not interested.

This... whatever this is--is an illegal structure and is being seized by the City of
New York.

Now
open that gate.

That won't be possible.

Well then, I guess we'll just have the Parks Department come down with their tree chippers and dump trucks.

You will do no such thing...

...the Treehouse is now recognized by the United Nations as a consulate of the sovereign nation of Krakoa.

The X-Men posted here are on a good will mission for the betterment of all mankind, and indeed all life on planet Earth.

I would throw you out of Seneca Gardens, but it remains an open green space for all New Yorkers...even you, Mr. Walker.

U.S. Agent to HQ. The mutants look like they got blue hats from the U.N.

I see.

Stand by, U.S. Agent.

Fisk is out of his depth playing politics with me.

Next: The Invisible Woman.
